SEYMOUR, INDIANA, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 13, 1917.

SEYMOUR BRANCH WOULD BE BENEFIT

Urged That County Registration Hold
Part of Sixty-day Session in This City.

THIRD OF VOTERS LIVE HERE

Admitted That if Board Remains at Brownstown Many Voters
Will Not Register.

The problem of registering the voters in Jackson county who are entitled to participate in the special election to be held on September 18 is receiving the attention of a large number of citizens who realize the importance of the election. In this county the plan of registration that is provided by law is very inconvenient. The board is in session at Brownstown and voters must either register in person, by mail or by messenger. It is pointed out that one third of the entire voting population of the county lives in Seymour and Jackson township and that more than half of the voters reside in the section of the county that is most accessible to Seymour. The disadvantages of the present plan are obvious. Several plans have been proposed to overcome the difficulties that are presented. It has been suggested that a number of residents in each precinct be asked to volunteer their services to secure the blanks from the voters in such precincts, but it is known that in many precincts difficulty will be experienced in finding persons who will have the time to devote to such work.

Another plan has been suggested and if there are no legal obstacles it promises to accommodate a large number of voters. It is proposed that the board of representatives of the board spend part of the sixty-day period in this city. It is pointed out that office accommodations are available at the city building and that many voters who would find it almost impossible to go to Brownstown to register could qualify here without inconvenience.

The matter was brought to the attention of the board this afternoon and the members state that they had not discussed the plan, but that if it is legal they believed that it would be instrumental in getting a larger number of voters to register early.

A local attorney has given the opinion that there is nothing in the law that would prevent a part of the board from being in session in this city for a portion of the sixty-day period. The expense would be no greater if one or two clerks spent part of their time here as the office rental would be nil. There is nothing in the registration statute, it is pointed out, that would prohibit the board from establishing a branch anywhere it might deem necessary, although it is provided that the headquarters for the board must be in the room that is designated by the county commissioners. The board is situated in the county clerk's office.

The registration board realizes that little interest thus far has been manifested by the voters. If a voter does not register the right to participate in the special election is forfeited. It is further stated that because of the many questions that must be answered the board will have difficulty in registering more than 150 a day, and unless the response is more general during the first part of the session than it has been since the board was organized it will be next to impossible to take care of the rush that will surely come before the board adjourns.

LESS THAN 1,000 MEMBERS LISTED

Jackson County Chapter of American Red Cross Must Have Larger Enrollment.

NATION WIDE DRIVE PLANNED

Seymour Furnished 683 Applications of the Total of 858 Which Are on File.

Jackson county has not fully met the responsibility which has been imposed upon it by American Red Cross Society. Recently a campaign was made with the expectation of enlisting at least 2,500 members for the Jackson County Chapter, but the complete returns to date which are in charge of Harry M. Miller, chairman of the membership committee, show that but 858 applications have been received. Several committees throughout the county have not yet reported the result of their endeavors but it is not believed that the total figure will reach one thousand. This is less than one half of the number which the county was expected to have.

The figures filed with the chairman of the membership committee show the following results: Seymour, 683; Crothersville, 30; Vallonia, 41; Cortland, 27; Medora, 30; Sparksville, 25; scattering, 22.

It is not yet too late to meet the duty which faces Jackson county. While the first local campaign failed to produce the number of members expected, a nationwide campaign is to be waged during the last week of this month. The time was set by President Wilson in a proclamation in which he emphasized the urgent need of contributing generously to the Red Cross. Later Governor Goodrich designed the same week as Red Cross week in Indiana and again impressed the public with the magnitude of the work which is before this organization.

Membership certificates may be secured from Mr. Miller at any time. The cost of membership is but $1, and an additional amount if the member wishes to subscribe for the Red Cross Magazine. There are no assessments and no work is required of the members unless they desire to contribute their services.

Before very long surgical dressings and hospital supplies will be needed for the care and comfort of American soldiers who will go to France to aid in the great battle for the supremacy of democracy. The United States will take care of its own boys. No true American will begrudge the contribution of one dollar to the American Red Cross when he realizes that the donation will help in saving the life of some American soldier who has been called away from his home. That is part of the work the Red Cross is doing.

Local committees are already organized to aid in the making of hospital supplies and surgical dressings. They will also make comfort kits for the American soldiers but money is first needed to buy the cloth and supplies. The ladies who will do the sewing will contribute their services without charge and will be glad to do their part.

Everybody Invited.

To the Interstate Public Service Company salesroom Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, when the awards in our big cake baking contest will be made. Following the announcement of the prizes, the cakes will be sold, the entire proceeds to go to the Red Cross fund. Come. All entries must be in by 4:00 p. m. Friday. j15d

FOREIGNER FAILS TO PRESENT CARD

Asahian Bogosian, an Armenian,
Held Here for Alleged Failure to Register.

GAVE EAST ST. LOUIS AS HOME

Pleads Ignorance of the New Federal Requirement and Case is Referred to County Board.

A rather perplexing case was before the police today. Officer Fink arrested Asahian Bogosian, an Armenian, late Tuesday afternoon when it developed that the foreigner was unable to present his registration card. He was held here and his case has been referred to the county registration board. Chief of Police Wallace has been instructed to hold all men who are unable to show evidence of registration and especial attention has been called to men who have no home and spend their time traveling a la box car over the country.

Bogosian is a puzzle to the police. He contends that he is unable to speak English and at times appears not to understand any of the questions asked of them. He told the police he had been in the United States for nine years. He has given his home as East St. Louis, Ill., but told conflicting stories as to where he had been before he came to Seymour. He said at one time that he was in Cincinnati and walked here from a "town twenty miles east of this place," and then later declared that he came here from East St. Louis.

Bogosian was able to tell the police where he lived in East St. Louis but when it was suggested to him that they inquire at that address he said that his cousin, who lived there, was aggrieved and would not help him. An offer was made to find work for him but he insisted that he did not want to work. During the day, however, he said he might remain here if he could get work and save enough money to buy a ticket to East St. Louis.

The case has been referred to the county registration board. It is not known what action will be taken. Another man who was arrested for train riding last Friday is being held at the county jail where he was sent to serve his unpaid fine and costs, and it has developed that he does not own a registration card. Sheriff McCord will investigate his case and ascertain if he has registered either in Chicago, his home, or mailed his card from Louisville where he said he was on registration day.

The authorities have been urged to enforce the registration law and to hold all men who cannot present their receipts on demand.

Walter Voss returned this morning from a two days' visit at Bloomington where he was the guest of the members of the Indiana University Chapter of the Phi Delta Theta.

FEDERAL CONTROL FOR PAPER MILLS

Government Regulation of News
Print Stock Urged by Federal Trade Commission.

EXCESSIVE PROFITS ARE MADE

Report to Senate Declares Situation
May Become More Serious
During This War.

By United Press.
Washington, June 13.—All paper mills in the United States will be placed under government control during the war and a request made that the Canadian government take the same action, if a recommendation made to the senate today by the federal trade commission is carried out.

The price of news print paper has advanced more than fifty per cent. since 1916, according to reports and all efforts at arbitration to restore competitive conditions have failed. It is estimated by the commission that the paper manufacturers received in 1917 more than $17,500,000 in excess profits and that paper during 1917 will cost $35,000,000 more to the consumer than last year.

"The news print paper situation is very serious," said the report, "not only to the consumers of paper and to the public generally but to the government of the United States which itself is a large consumer of paper. The commission believes this situation will be still more aggravated and serious in the coming months."

The federal trade commission today issued a complaint charging more than one hundred western lumber companies with conspiracy to defeat plans and destroy the business of mail order houses to sell lumber and building material. The commission summoned the lumber dealers to appear at Washington July 31st and answer the charges.

By a large majority it was voted to authorize the President to restrict or prohibit the use of perishable food for the manufacture of intoxicants. The President is empowered to commandeer spirits in bond when needed for munition manufacture and hospital supplies.

ARRANGEMENTS ALREADY MADE FOR SECOND CAMP

Applications for New Training Camp Must be Filed Between June 15 and July 5.

By United Press.

Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., June 13.—Arrangements are already being made for the second officers' training camp which will open at this fort twelve days following the close of the present course of instruction on August 15.

All applications for the new camp must be filed between June 15 and July 15, according to word received by military authorities at Washington. No applications will be received after that date. Those who made application for the first camp but were not accepted, must again make formal application if they wish to enter the second camp. Their first application will be of no avail.

The camp will be composed of men from Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia. Application for entrance should be made to the camp officials here or to Gen. Thomas H. Barry, commander of the Central Army division at Chicago or to the adjutant general of the state.

Applications should bear the endorsement of three resident citizens. Army officers here hope that men of more mature years will make application to join the next camp. Many of those who made application for the first course were barely over the age limit. Military officials realize that an officer should be a man of considerable experience, education and training in order to be able to command the respect of those who are placed under his charge.

Bloomington, Ind., June 13.—Lucius B. Swift, attorney of Indianapolis, today delivered the commencement address to a record breaking class of seniors of Indiana University. More than 400 received degrees of bachelor of arts alone, beside the large number of candidates for degrees in various professional departments.

77,642 CHILDREN OF SCHOOL AGE REPORTED IN INDIANA

Figures Compiled by State Superintendent Shows Increase of 300 Above 1916.

By United Press.

The children of school age in Indiana increased in number this school year over last by 300, according to the official school enumeration of the state, made public by Horace Ellis, state superintendent of public instruction.

The Jackson county report showed 7,432 persons of school age. The number of males attending school is given as 2,949 while 3,856 females are enrolled in classes in this county.

The total number of children, between the ages of six and twenty-one years, reported to the state superintendent this year from the counties was 77,642, while the total for the preceding school year was 77,342. The figures will be used eventually as the basis of distributing the school funds from the state treasury to the various school corporations in the state.

In this total the state authorities this year enumerated the children, within the school age limits, who are regularly employed. Those totals did not balance with the grand totals for the reasons that the county superintendents did not attempt to balance the statistics they sent in on this point and also because in the great majority of instances, the children reported as either employed or not employed were older than the fourteen-age limit.

The number regularly employed is given as 79,567 males and 55,736 females and the number unemployed is given as 10,585 males and 16,632 females.

There is a vast discrepancy between the total number of children enumerated and the total number actually attending school during the year just closed. The males attending school numbered 290,379, and the females numbered 288,721. This discrepancy is due, of course, to the fact that many children finish their schooling before the age of twenty-one years and others are kept out of school in various years for many reasons.

The total number of children in the state between the ages of fourteen and sixteen years, was 116,015, according to the report. Children between these age limits, under the child labor law, either must be in school or employed. The total for the preceding school year was 110,917.

The total number of white boys, registered in the enumeration this year was 390,866, and the total number of white girls was 367,542. The total number of colored boys was 8,130 and the total number of colored girls was 8,104.

The school corporations of the state are subdivided in various ways in each county and from each corporation a report was sent in, showing the net gain or the net loss in school enumeration of each school corporation during the year. The school corporations, reporting losses, showed a total of 16,909 over the preceding year and those reporting gains showed a total of 17,209, thus leaving a net gain for the state of 300 children. This is one of the smallest net gains for several years.

Marion county showed enumeration totals of 68,100, with 24,866 males attending the schools regularly, and 24,750 females.

MILITARY AIR GIVEN TO WABASH COMMENCEMENT

Seniors Attending Reserve Camp at Ft. Harrison Allowed to Attend Exercises.

By United Press.

Crawfordsville, Ind., June 13.—A military air was given the commencement exercises of Wabash college here today by the attendance of a large number of former students who are now wearing Uncle Sam's uniform in various lines of service.

Seniors who have been attending the officers reserve camp at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, were allowed to attend the exercises. They left the fort on a special car at noon and will have to return by tonight.

Only thirteen of the members of the entire senior class finished the school year, the remainder leaving for service. Those who gave their services to their country, however, were awarded their honors the same as if they had completed the required course of instruction.

The exercises were held late this afternoon in the college chapel. The address was delivered by Arthur Judson Brown of the class of 1880 who resides in New York city.

The Von Fange Company set the stone base of the flag pole monument today. The stone is set on a foundation of concrete and the long flag staff is anchored deep in the ground. It is the plan of James Demas, who raised the funds for the monument, to have a public ceremony when the big flag is hoisted in place.

BUY A BOND

Thousands of people are buying Liberty Loan Bonds. Thousands of persons are giving their services as agents and solicitors in order to boost the sale. Four hundred thousand Boy Scouts have volunteered their services as messengers to carry applications from the home and office to the headquarters where the applications are received. Thousands of newspapers are devoting columns of space to emphasize the importance of a national response to this feature of the war preparation. Thousands of individuals are making personal appeals to their friends to buy a bond before Friday.

This great system of co-operation was voluntarily effected in order that the United States might meet the first demand upon it in this war. The importance of raising the first two billion dollars of the great loan cannot be underestimated. It is the call of patriotism. It is the appeal for democracy. The response must come from patriots and from loyal supporters of the principle of democracy. The duty is nation wide. It cannot be met by the capitalists and bankers alone. Every man and woman must aid.

America is to spend troops to aid our allies. First of all, however, they need money in order to keep their own troops in the field. There is a probability that a generous response to the Liberty Loan call will save many American men from entering active service. The money will help our allies to buy the equipment needed for their soldiers which will bring the war to an earlier close. The purchase of a Liberty Loan Bond is the safest investment in the world today. Every bond bears the guarantee of Uncle Sam. It is non-taxable except from the inheritance tax. By buying a Liberty Loan Bond Americans can not only show their patriotism in a material way but can make a safe investment. The first issue must be raised by Friday. If it fails the result will have an effect. If it wins the country will prove to the world that it is in this war in all earnestness and sincerity. Don't you want to help Uncle Sam make good in his first endeavor to restore an early peace?

A NATIONAL SHAME.
(Columbus Republican)

A dispatch from Washington points out that the postoffice is becoming a recruiting office. An old law—long inoperative—has been dug up whereby postmasters are paid $5 each for recruits for the federal army. Up to the end of April, which is as long a period as is covered by the War Department figures, postmasters had sent in 5,754 recruits and had been paid a total of $28,770.

A list of 62 postoffices is given, showing that Atlanta leads the list with 618 postmaster's recruits, which netted the postmaster $5 each. Indianapolis was fifth in the list with 230. Ft. Wayne was fourth with 239, and Terre Haute was fifteenth with 129.

Everybody knows that the average postmaster is appointed to pay a political debt. Everybody also knows that the postmaster is well paid for the amount of work he has to do. In this section of the country the postmasters are better paid than any other class of federal appointees. The postoffices are so well organized that, try as they may, the postmasters find little actual work to do. They are required, under federal regulations to spend eight hours on the job each day, but even if they do this there is not a great deal for them to do and the assistants, clerks and carriers really have the work to shoulder.

To think that postmasters in this country are now taking $5 each for recruits is nothing short of a national shame. Postmasters are federal agents. They are supposed to aid the government in every way possible. When they begin doing this for the revenue there is in it, their status drops away below par. Securing men to help win the great war ought to be a privilege rather than a matter of dollars and cents. A few postmasters in Indiana have refused to touch this money. But the vast majority seem to be neglecting their official duties while they try to collar recruits for the army and then collect their little old $5 for each man so taken.

A few departments at Indiana University are always ready to "save the country" by plans that are so theoretical that they are worthless as practical measures. The latest endeavor of the so-called extension department is the encouragement of the establishment of municipal coal yards or the purchase of a large quantity of coal direct from the mines upon application of a large number of consumers. In theory this sounds well. But the department has forgotten that the recent investigation by the Indiana Public Service Commission proved that the retail dealers were not to blame for the high price of coal. In fact, the dealers in many cities are unable to buy coal for future delivery and certainly the mine operators would not sell to a co-operative organization if they refuse to accept orders from dealers who have long engaged in business with them. The extension department in its articles apparently overlooks the fact that the cause for the high prices is the inability of the dealers to get shipments made from the mines. Hence the plan of the Bloomington theorists fails before it even gets started.

Now that the king of Greece has been forced to abdicate, maybe the kaiser will be the next of the European rulers to join the down and outers.

See?

When talking on the phone each day. Whatever can the reason be That forty times at least we say, "I see!"

The party makes most any crack, "Your rent is due," "Please call at three." We're almost sure to answer back, "I see!"

Unless we say, "I see," you cry. The party wouldn't know that we Had heard, and that's the reason why, "I see."

There has been, according to the humorist of the Berlin Vossische Zeitung, "a sad breaking down of America's war plans and preparations." Yes, the preparations are doubtless the saddest piece of news Germany has heard since Haig began to unravel the Hindenburg line.

And now comes Constantine of Greece to join the organization of has been among the monarchs of Europe. It is understood that the application of a prominent resident of Berlin has been favorably acted on by the Allies, and that his initiation has been set for an early date.

Friday is your last chance to buy a Liberty bond. Better do it today.

Tomorrow is Flag Day, and there ought not be a single flag left in the closets and attics. Get out your flags.

Now, a lady phones us that it would not require 3,000,000,000 pounds of sugar to preserve the rinds of the Texas watermelon crop; that paring and other waste would reduce the preservable portion to not more than 500,000,000 pounds, and that the sugar would not cost more than $45,000,000. Well, if that's all, maybe we can arrange it. —Houston Post.

Really this seems like a waste of sugar. If any watermelon rinds are to be preserved, it ought to be those from the best watermelons—the kind that are grown here in Indiana.

De Mortibus.

Upon the recent death in a Western town of a politician, who, at one time, served his country in a very high legislative place, a number of newspaper men were collaborating on an obituary notice.

"What shall we say of the former senator?" asked one of the men.

"Oh, just put down that he was always faithful to his trust."

"And," queried a cynical member of the group, "shall we mention the name of the trust?" —Puck.

The new Liberty bonds will vary in color from the blue ones, with a picture of President Jefferson, which Bushman and Beverly Bayne, two stars who need no introduction in Seymour.

With this intensely interesting serial will be shown the Pathe Weekly and a comedy picture. Don't miss the opening chapter entitled "The Secret Seven."

GOVERNMENT GETS FIGURES ABOUT STORAGE HOUSES

Dealers Requested to File Blanks
Showing Number of Cubic Feet of Space in Use.

The government is collecting considerable data about the food situation and the size of the storage houses throughout the country. Recently wholesale grocers and others engaged in the handling of food-stuffs were asked to fill out blanks showing the amount of staple groceries and similar supplies in stock.

A second blank was later distributed and asked for the number of cubic feet of storage space that is used in each business. A number of firms here received the blanks and forwarded the answers immediately.

A representative of the government was here this morning calling on various concerns and collecting information regarding the fire risks. The information he collected is very similar to that that is asked by fire insurance adjusters.

"A Safe Saving"

Ever stop to consider that every dollar we save you is safely saved. There is a distinct difference between a bargain and a value. A bargain means a low price with a risk attached to the goods. A value means good goods at a low price. Experience has taught us that a value is the only kind we can safely offer. Draw your own conclusions. When you realize the high percentage of our customers who trade only with us—when they tell you why—you'll probably drop in yourself. And we'll be glad to see you.

Hill of the Poison Plant.
Close to the frontier of Nepal is the mountain of Sandook-Phu, which means in the Tibetan language "the hill of the poison plant," or aconite. This plant is so abundant and so deadly in its effects that all sheep and cattle passing over the mountain are muzzled by their drivers. An English traveler saw at its foot great heaps of discarded bamboo muzzles. Curiously enough, only those cattle that are newly imported from the plains are fatally affected. The natives believe that the sheep of the district learn to shun the youngest leaves, which are the most virulent. A more likely explanation is that they grow habituated to the drug by taking it in small quantities.

Mrs. Ellen Fletcher and daughter, Mary, of Greenfield, were here this morning enroute to Brownstown for a week's visit with Mrs. Elvina Weathers.

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

AUTHOR OF "K," "THE MAN IN LOWER TEN," ETC.

COPYRIGHT - MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

"He expected it, Henriette," he said. "He thought it would have come sooner, in the Parker matter. I wonder—"

He glanced through the open door to the billiard room, where old Hilary's body lay on the table. He was minded, was Boroday, to wonder many things—whether, after all, old Hilary's dauntless spirit had gone out like a lamp, or if—

This white and carved thing in the next room, with stiffening hands and the gray derby at its feet, surely there was no mystery about it. This was not old Hilary: that was all. But where, then, was old Hilary? The Russian, who had been raised within the pale and on an ancient faith, and who had now lost his best friend, felt all the bitterness of his unbelief.

Elinor stirred.

"He will have to be buried," said Henriette. "The news has gone through the town. The assistant rector presses stood, silent monsters waiting to leap, old Hilary Kingston was standing, kidgloved and wearing the gray derby hat he affected. As the taxicab bore down toward him he hailed it.

"Taxi!" he called.

The taxicab slowed down. Old Hilary, seeing it occupied, waved it off with his stick. But it had come to a full stop. There was an alleyway beside the Record building, and now three men ran out from there, and thrust revolvers through the open windows of the cab. After that it was hot work. Marshall of the bank went back with a bullet through his lung. The bank messenger fired pointblank, and missed his target; but old Hilary, gray derby and all, went down where he stood, twenty feet away. The uninjured clerk had an automatic gun, and swept a circle with it over the bag which lay at his feet. There was no getting inside that ring of death. The bandits retreated, firing as they ran, and climbed into an automobile up the street. When the reporters in the Record office awakened to the fact that there was a story under their windows, the street was clear. Only old Hilary lay dead on the pavement, with a bullet in his head.

The chauffeur of the taxicab drove madly to the hospital with Marshall, who was dying, and then to police quarters where he gave himself up. He was released, of course. His name was Walter Huff. He was shown to be a new man, but sober and industrious, one of the best drivers in the employ of the taxicab company. It was also shown that Hilary Kingston had hailed him: Huff explained his stopping. Mr. Kingston was a regular patron; he had meant to tell him that in five minutes he would come back and pick him up. Huff was under surveillance for three days. His conduct was impeccable.

CHAPTER III.

It was, after all, the assistant rector of Saint Jude's who came up the hill that hot August day. The news of old Hilary's death had come down from the city on an early train. The rector was away on his deferred fishing trip, where, having exchanged his clerical collar for none at all and having blistered the end of his ecclesiastical nose he was quite happy.

The assistant, Mr. Ward, whistled as he climbed the hill. As the hill was steep, this proved two things—his youth, and his lightness of heart. True, old Hilary Kingston was dead, and violently done to death. But to Mr. Ward death was but the gateway to a larger life; and only very sad in the young, who have not yet lived.

Mr. Ward was young, a broad-shouldered young man, with clear, rather deep-set eyes, and a firm mouth. The people of Saint Jude's prophesied that the world would hear of Mr. Ward. There was only one bar to his progress: he had too much humor. It seemed to the people of Saint Jude's that religion is a serious thing, forgetting that good cheer is one of the things it must bring, and it be religion.

Boroday met Ward in the hall. Old Hilary was upstairs by that time, lying in his great bed. All the doors and windows were open, and sunshine filled the rooms. Ward thought it an unusually sane house of mourning.

"I'm glad to see the sun," he said. "So many people close things up."

"Miss Kingston wished things undisturbed."

"I came to tell her—but I suppose she doesn't care to see anyone—the rector is away on a holiday. I'll wire him, of course."

Boroday led the way into the library where the rector had so recently re-

YES FATHER, I ADMIT I DID HAVE A LOVE AFFAIR ON MY VACATION— IN FACT I BECAME ENGAGED TO A MAN OF LETTERS!

BUT THIS IS HOW SHE DID IT

ceived his check. He turned and eyed Ward.

"Why bring the rector back?" he asked. "It is a little late for—the comforts of religion."

"Mr. Kingston gave lavishly to the church. Whatever the church can do—"

"I rather think," said Boroday politely, "that he gave, not to the church, but to the poor."

"Inasmuch as ye give unto one of the least of these," Ward replied, and returned Boroday's gaze.

Elinor had pulled herself together. By the one standard that had ruled her life she acted now—her father's wishes.

Ward, brought face to face with her, found her unapproachable, calm, almost cold. Found her very lovely, too, and let his ardent young eyes rest on her oftener than was wise. Her situation appealed to him. She seemed to be quite alone, save for the Russian with the beard.

"If I can do anything," he said, "wire to your relatives—anything of that sort—"

"I have no relatives. My mother died when I was born. I—I have a curious feeling that everything in the world has stopped—as though I'd reached the end of things."

It seemed to Mr. Ward that he should offer some of the comfort of his faith to this shrinking, wide-eyed girl before him. But what? Rumors had come to him, of course.

"Death is only a tragedy when we think of it as an end and not as a beginning," he said. "It is always sad. I hope you understand that I know how terrible all this is for you. But to have lived one's life, active and well and useful to the end, and then to depart, in the fullness of days, for new activities—somewhere else—"

Elinor shivered in the warm sunshine.

"You see," she said drearily, "I do not believe those things. I should like to just now." Then, almost defiantly: "He was useful. You will never know the things he did that were helpful. But perhaps we would not agree on that, either."

The Russian was walking up and down the hall, impassive, watchful. Under his stoical indifference, he was suffering tortures. A bullet from the automatic had gone through his left arm, grazing the bone. Luckily, the bullet was not in the wound. Henriette had bathed and cleansed it, but he was in agony.

Now and then he glanced in at the library door, but generally he watched the road up the hill. As he had watched the Church ascending, so now at any time might come Law. He would be prepared.

He had grown a beard since the St. Louis matter. That would help. And he had waited to return and claim old Hilary's body, until the Record extra had announced his killing. Walking up and down the wide hall, his keen mind was going back, detail by detail, over the day. Talbot and Lethbridge in the car had kept on. They had had changes of clothing in the machine. By now they should be at the country club, and halfway around the links. The car, with its changed license plates, would be standing in the eminently respectable country club garage.

Ward had risen. He towered far above Elinor. Because of his heavy shoulders, he never looked his full height. Boroday, in the corridor, stole a moment from his anxieties to find the young clergyman every inch of a man, and to throw him the grudging admiration of defeated middle-age for youth and vibrant life.

"Then I shall not send for the rector?"

"Please, no."

"Is there anything at all that I can do to—"

"Do the—the police know about this?"

"Surely. I suppose you have been told what happened."

"They will tell me nothing." There was a car coming up the hill.

That would be it. Boroday eased his aching arm. He did not dare a sling, but the hand was thrust in the pocket of his coat. If only the hemorrhage did not start again! He braced himself and watched.

"It was a robbery, you know that?" said Ward, in the library. He picked his words carefully. "As I got the story, a taxicab on its way to the bank was held up near the Record office. Your father had stepped to the curb to hail the taxi, and—it happened then, a—stray bullet from one of the bandits' guns."

Boroday, eyes on the car, heard the statement, and, with the chief coming up the steps from the road to the garden, took the time to repudiate it.

"Pardon!" he said. "It was not a weapon in the hands of the bandits. It was the revolver of the bank messenger."

Ward turned in surprise. Boroday's eyes were fixed on Elinor's, with reassurance in their depths. The assistant rector was not subtle, but he had a curious feeling of something behind all this. He was uncomfortable.

"I trust," he said earnestly, "that these various outrages will be at an end now. Surely the police—"

"Possibly." The anarchist's gaze wandered to the garden, where even then the chief was making his way toward the house. "Of course, these bandits are trained men of unusual intelligence. If the police were of intelligence to cope with them—"

"Yes?"

"They would not be on the force, at meager salaries and petty graft. They would be"—he shrugged his shoulders—"bandits themselves, very possibly."

Ward left after that—left with an uncomfortable feeling of having got nowhere. He was convinced of one thing, death, which for him was an open gateway, was for this girl a closed and fastened door. And he knew something else. No other woman had ever so profoundly impressed him as this girl who without hope in her grief met it with a high head and courageous eyes.

He felt a certain comfort in one thing. Elinor had made a concession, and Hilary Kingston, lavish giver to the parish poor, was to be buried from Saint Jude's.

The chief met Mr. Ward on the terrace and took off his hat. Boroday, in the dim hall, felt a certain sense of content. Nothing could have been more auspicious, could have set his stage

Grippe At Night— Tip Top In The Morning

Business Woman Finds a Quick Remedy for Colds, Lagrippe and Tonsillitis.

Miss Bernice Krebs, 301 College St., Findlay, O., says: "During the month of January I was seized with hard chills while at work in the office of the Morning Republican and on arriving home in the evening found that I had a genuine case of Lagrippe. Nearly every bone in my body ached and I was so sick that I was unable to report at the office the following morning. I took four doses of 20 drops each, of Hull's Superlative Compound that day. The next morning I was feeling tip-top and able to return to my duties."

Miss Krebs is only one of hundreds who have broken up colds, lagrippe and tonsillitis with Hull's Superlative Compound.

When these diseases grip you, your liver, kidney and bowels do not perform their proper functions, with consequent clogging of the system, filling it with poison, causing a feverish condition, shooting pains and aches which must be eliminated quickly or will result in dangerous complications.

When taken in time, Hull's Superlative Compound never fails to assist nature to do its work on these diseased organs of the body. It improves the circulation, causes the blood to reach every cell and rapid improvement takes place.

All good druggists handle this wonderful remedy. After once trying Hull's Superlative and receiving its benefits, you will always keep it in the house. For a general Spring tonic and disease preventative there is nothing better than Hull's Superlative Compound. Costs only $1.00 a bottle at your druggist.

better for his little drama, than the presence of the young clergyman. The whole scene gained tone, decorum.

The chief's visit was short. They had followed the bandits' car and lost it, and finding himself in the neighborhood—

"Be assured," he said to Elinor, in his best manner, "that we'll not rest until this thing is cleared up. The community"—he cleared his throat—"the community will not lose one of its best citizens without a violent protest."

With the coroner he went up the stairs and into old Hilary's room. The chief glanced about while the hasty examination was being made.

"Nice room," he said. "But a jolly lot of good it does the old gentleman now! Nice little girl downstairs, too. I've seen that chap in the hall somewhere."

The coroner drew the sheet over old Hilary's peaceful face.

"The preacher? They all look alike. It's the wear and the collar."

"The other man, with the accent. German, I take it, or—Russian."

Boroday was waiting for them at the foot of the staircase. In the library was a tray, with drinks and sandwiches. The shades had been lowered.

The chief ate and drank. And as often as he raised his glass he looked at the Russian over it. At last:

"Haven't we met somewhere, Mr. —"

"Boroday. I rather think not."

"You remind me of someone—I'll place you, or the person you resemble,

"Ah!" he said, bending forward toward Boroday. "I told you I'd get it. It was in St. Louis I saw you!"

Their glances clashed, the chief's intent, the Russian's cool, amused.

"The dog," said Boroday, "holds on well, but—to the wrong throat."

"You have never been in St. Louis?"

"Never."

Waste Makes Haste. (Houston Post).

Another thing you have observed.

The very ginks who speed their automobiles fastest really have no place in particular to go and nothing in particular to do.

Those who suffer from stiffness, stiff and swollen joints, pains in the back, side and limbs, rheumatism, lumbago, neuralgia or whatever the trouble may be that gives you pain, just apply Miller's Antiseptic Oil (known as Snake Oil) and the pains will disappear like magic. Thousands throughout the country are now finding instant relief in this wonderful new oil remedy. Many are now using it to prevent Grip, Pneumonia, Sore Throat and Colds with gratifying results. For coughs a few drops of this great oil will give immediate relief. It's a doctor shop within itself and should be in every home.

Accept no substitute. This great oil is golden red color only. Every bottle guaranteed, 25c, 50c and $1.00 a bottle, or money refunded. At leading druggists, Maxon Pharmacy.

pretty soon. I have a slow mind. It's like an Airedale dog; it's a long time getting started, but when it begins it hangs on like the devil."

The drinks were cold, and the house cool. The prospect of starting out in the heat and dust did not allure the two men. Sitting there at his ease, the chief ran over the points of the outrage.

"In several ways," he observed comfortably, the affair resembles one that of the church has telephoned, and is on his way here now. What am I to do?"

"Let Them Bury Him as They Will," Said Boroday.

"Let them bury him as they will," said Boroday. "What does it matter? he would himself have seen the humor of it."

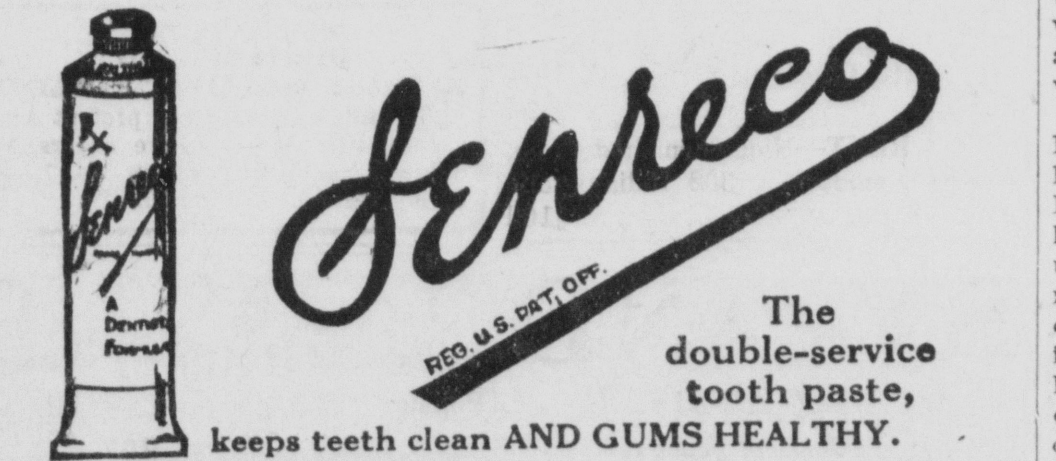

Hilary Kingston had been shot during the daylight robbery of the Agrarian bank messenger. He was shot as an innocent bystander, and was referred to by the press as philanthropist and martyr. So much for years of caution and the annual gift to Saint Jude's.

As a matter of fact, the Agrarian affair was calamitous in several ways. It bore too close a resemblance to a St. Louis matter of several years back, in which Boroday had come under suspicion.

On a Tuesday morning, the cash being more than the bank cared to have about, two hundred and ten thousand dollars was sent to the clearing house. Two clerks from the bank accompanied the messenger, who went by taxicab.

There are two direct routes to the clearing house: one along one of the great avenues, the other through the newspaper district. Here, at ten-thirty in the morning, things are rather quiet, and except for vans delivering rolls of paper, there is little traffic.

The taxicab went by this latter route, Opposite the Record office, where the Senreco The double-service tooth paste, keeps teeth clean AND GUMS HEALTHY.

Keeping the gums healthy and the mouth sweet is very important to health; more teeth are lost through the loosening of the tissue that holds the teeth in place than from decay.

Dental science to-day demands that a tooth paste must keep the gums healthy as well as clean the teeth.

Senreco was formulated to meet this requirement. Hundreds of dentists are prescribing and using Senreco because they have found that it does measure up to that standard.

SENRECO IS A WONDERFUL CLEANSER.

In addition to its remedial properties Senreco is a wonderful cleanser; acts directly on the mucin film, the basis of tartar; leaves the mouth cool and clean-feeling. As some one has expressed it—Senreco gives one a new idea on mouth cleanliness.

Get a tube to-day at your druggists or toilet counter—enjoy the healthy, cleanly feeling its use gives your mouth and gums. Notice how brilliantly white Senreco makes your teeth. It performs this two-fold service for you and yet costs no more than the ordinary, old-fashioned tooth paste that simply cleans the teeth and leaves a pleasant taste—25 cents for a large 2 ounce tube.

"CONSCRIPTION" WEEK FOR ROOSTERS IN INDIANA

Slaughter or Confinement of Roosters Urged by Poultry Experts of State and Nation.

The week of June 18 to 23 is "conscription" week for Indiana roosters. No rooster will be "exempted" from slaughter or confinement after this date by any patriotic Hoosier poultryman, for Rooster Week will be observed throughout the entire state.

In answer to the national call for more chickens, Indiana poultry raisers have been hatching a full month later than usual. But by the end of June the hatching will be practically over and attention must then be given to conservation of the enormous loss in summer eggs.

Few people realize just how large this loss is. "Swat the Rooster" has been accepted as a slogan, also is somewhat of a joke. That a million dollars worth of eggs can be spoiled by roosters of Indiana in one year is almost beyond the conception of many good poultrymen.

What are the facts? A very conservative estimate is that Indiana markets 60,000,000 dozen eggs each year. Expert investigation by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture shows that 5 percent of these are lost annually because the rooster is not removed from the flock at the close of the breeding season.

Five percent of sixty million dozen is three million dozen eggs annually lost in Indiana because they are fertile. This year these three million dozen eggs are worth over a million dollars. One million dollars lost because the rooster is left with the hens through the hot summer months.

Many poultry buyers over the state will pay an extra price for roosters during Rooster Week. In a number of communities it is being taken up as a "trade-getter" week by the merchants. Special bargains will be extensively advertised and every inducement made to the farmers to "Come to town—and bring your roosters."

Rooster Week has been set later than usual in order to in no way interfere with the late hatching campaign of the American Poultry Association. The Poultry Department of Purdue University backed by the leading poultry buyers of the state, is responding for the movement.

The date is fixed, the co-operation of many buyers assured, and it is confidently believed that, even without the incentive of an extra price for roosters, the poultry raisers of the state will patriotically sell, kill or confine their male birds, insuring a saving of many thousand dozen of July and August eggs.

E. B. Bryan, chairman of the poultry division of the Jackson County Food Commission, advises the farmers to follow the advice of the poultry experts as a means of saving thousands of eggs.
